Dr. Dalbir Bharti was born on 14th April 1960 in village Banmandori, district Fatehabad, Haryana. He attended Government Primary School of his village and passed 5th Class and stood first in the Centre of five schools in the Board exams. He did matriculation from Government High School, Bhattu Kalan, a nearby town. He was married on 25th June 1975 to Sarla of the adjoining village Pilimandori. In order to get a job to support his family, he obtained a diploma in English Stenography in 1979 from Industrial Training Institute, Nathusari-Chopta, District Sirsa, Haryana standing first in the Institute.

He joined State Bank of India in March 1980 in clerical cadre on the basis of the banking services competitive examination. While serving in the Bank, he pursued his studies as a private student and did B.A. from Panjab University and M.A. (Political Science) from Kurukshetra University. On the basis of the Civil Services examination held by the UPSC, he joined the IPS in 1987 and was allotted Maharashtra cadre. While being in the IPS, he did LL.B. from Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, standing first in the University. Thereafter, he did Ph.D on “The Constitution of India and Criminal Justice Administration” from the University of Mumbai.

As IPS officer, he served in various capacities under the Government of Maharashtra and the Government of India. He was Superintendent of Police of Sindhudurg and Jalna districts; Deputy Commissioner of Police in Aurangabad and Mumbai cities; Deputy Director of Maharashtra Police Academy, Nashik; Additional Commissioner of Police (Crime), Nagpur city; Deputy Inspector-General of Police, CRPF; Inspector-General of Police, Amravati Range and Director of Maharashtra Intelligence Academy, Pune. He took voluntary retirement from the IPS in 2011 and worked in corporate sector as Consultant/Group President for two and half years. Presently, he is a Delhi/Gurgaon based Legal Consultant and active in socio-political field.

He is keen to help the poor and needy students in their educational endeavours. Immediately after joining the IPS, he started in 1989 a scheme of giving prizes to the toppers of his village school and this scheme is still continued. In order to do charitable work in a systematic manner, he established Bharti Education and Development Society (Regd), Delhi in 1993 (www.bhartisociety.org) and since then is its President. The Society runs Libraries and Study Centres and other charitable activities to help the poor and needy students in the field of education and development.

He is Chairman of the recently established Vision India Research Centre, Delhi (www.virc.in) which aims at conducting research, seminars, debates, surveys etc to find practicable solutions to the contemporary problems with futuristic approach.

He is author of five books on the subjects of Constitution, Police, Law and Social Harmony. One of his books has been awarded Pt. Govind Vallabh Pant purashkar in 2011 by the Government of India. His latest book Social Harmony: A Remedy for Intolerance was released in February 2017.
